Retrieved Statutory Laws and Court Procedures:

1. The Specific Relief Act, 1877:

* Section 8 (Suit for possession of immovable property): "A person entitled to the possession of specific immovable property may recover it in the manner prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure." This section allows the user to file a suit for possession of their rightful share of the property.

* Section 9 (Suit by person dispossessed of immovable property): "If any person is dispossessed without his consent of immovable property otherwise than in due course of law, he may, by suit, recover possession thereof, notwithstanding any other title that may be set up in such suit." This section is directly applicable as the user has been dispossessed without consent and not through due process of law.

2. The Transfer of Property Act, 1882:

* Section 44 (Transfer by one co-owner): "Where one of two or more co-owners of immovable property legally competent in that behalf transfers his share of such property or any interest therein, the transferee acquires, as against the other co-owners, the same rights, subject to the same liabilities and disabilities as the transferor had before the transfer." While this section deals with transfer, it implies the equal rights of co-owners and sets a precedent against one co-owner illegally dispossessing another.

3. The Pakistan Penal Code, 1860:

* Section 441 (Criminal trespass): "Whoever enters into or upon property in the possession of another with intent to commit an offence or to intimidate, insult or annoy any person in possession of such property, or having lawfully entered into or upon such property, unlawfully remains there with intent thereby to intimidate, insult or annoy any such person, or with intent to commit an offence, is said to commit 'criminal trespass'." The brother's actions could potentially be classified as criminal trespass.

* Section 447 (Punishment for criminal trespass): "Whoever commits criminal trespass shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both."

4. Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (CPC):

* Order VII Rule 1 (Particulars to be contained in plaint): This outlines the essential details required in a civil suit, including the facts constituting the cause of action and when it arose, the subject matter, and the relief sought.

* Order XXI (Execution of Decrees and Orders): This details the procedure for enforcing court judgments, such as obtaining possession of property.

* General procedure for filing a civil suit: This involves filing a plaint, issuance of summons to the defendant, filing of written statement, framing of issues, recording of evidence, arguments, and pronouncement of judgment.
